NOTES.

The index has been considerably expanded and much additional matter included, and a few minor alterations have been made in the general scheme of arrangement.

The differences between the present and preceding revisions are the following :—

- a.* Anti-aircraft sections and batteries have been transferred from Field Artillery to a position immediately succeeding Aviation Units.
- b.* Railway units are now placed after Signal Units.
- c.* Wireless formations are now included under Signal Units.

The following additions have been made :—

- a.* Index of Corps Staffs.
- b.* Index of Works Companies.
- c.* Index of Divisional Artillery Staffs.
- d.* Index of Armoured Car Detachments.
- e.* Index of Divisional Pioneer Battalions.
- f.* Index of Anti-aircraft Searchlight Sections.
- g.* Index of Anti aircraft Staffs.
- h.* Index of Balloon Barrage Detachments.
- i.* Index of Carrier-pigeon Lofts.
- k.* Index of Bearer Companies.
- l.* Index of Field Hospitals.
- m.* Index of Veterinary Hospitals.
- n.* Index of Divisional Motor Transport Columns.
- o.* Index of Assault Battalions.

The Indices of Visual Signalling sections and Divisional Train Échelons have been omitted : the former on the ground that the Visual Signalling sections now form part of the Telephone Detachments ; the latter, since the Divisional Train Échelons have ceased to afford any indication of the location of divisions, being no longer included among divisional troops.

Marginal headings and guide-lines have been added so that the margin may be “stepped” for facility of reference.

All corrections and additions should be sent to the Director of Military Intelligence, War Office.

NOTE.—If an active regiment has more or less than 9 batteries, or an Abteilung more than 3 batteries, the number of its batteries is shown in brackets. Certain regiments have been withdrawn from divisions and attached to definite sectors of the fronts. These independent regiments are shown in italics. When a regiment is independent or attached to a division to which it does not normally belong, its Corps District is shown in Roman numerals.

Pioneer Regiments (3).

NOTE.—The Pioneer Regiments, though fortress units, have been put into the field, and are used as Army Troops for special engineering work, such as the construction of points d'appui, and the provision of personnel for gas attacks, heavy Minenwerfer Detachments, Flammenwerfer Sections, &c. Most of the original Pioneer regiments have now become Pioneer battalions, and are grouped with the other Pioneer battalions, pages 93 to 95.
